Tenuta di Trinoro 2012 Tenuta di Trinoro

Sarteano, Tuscany

Red wine from Italy

Drinking window: 2017 - 2032

Another stunning wine, the 2012 Tenuta di Trinoro wraps around the palate with stunning depth and power. Today, the flavors are incredibly primary, but it is the wine's textural depth and nuance that impress. The 2012 boasts tremendous concentration, but there are no hard edges, just pure fruit and voluptuousness to burn. Readers should give the 2012 another 2-3 years in bottle.

Tenuta di Trinoro 2012 Magnacosta

Sarteano, Tuscany

Red wine from Italy

Drinking window: 2017 - 2027

Dark red cherries, plums, smoke new leather, savory herbs, tobacco and spices meld together in the 2012 Magnacosta, Trinoro's 100% Cabernet Franc. Today, the flavors are quite raw and not fully developed, but the wine impresses for its energy, vitality and pure, radiant fruit. Readers need to be patient, but this is a great wine in the making.

Tenuta di Trinoro 2012 Palazzi

Sarteano, Tuscany

Red wine from Italy

Drinking window: 2017 - 2027

Trinoro's 2012 Palazzi, 100% Merlot, is flat-out stunning. Beautifully textured and layered in the glass, the 2012 boasts superb depth and intensity, not to mention fabulous overall balance. Dark raspberries, flowers, mint and new leather are some of the many notes that resonate on the finish. What a fabulous wine this is. Wow!

Tenuta di Trinoro 2012 Le Cupole di Trinoro

Sarteano, Tuscany

Red wine from Italy

Drinking window: 2015 - 2024

One of the great values in Tuscan wine, the 2012 Cupole di Trinoro is simply stunning in this vintage. Dark red cherry, plum, licorice, spice and leather notes jump from the glass in a vibrant, nuanced wine that captures the pedigree of Trinoro at a fraction of the price of the higher-end wines. The dark, voluptuous finish is truly a thing of beauty. This is a fabulous showing.

Wine Tasted: May 2014. Antonio Galloni, October 2014.
