The wine is highly aromatic with ripe, fruity notes, balanced by a lovely freshness and acidity that points to great longevity. Although we've produced the wine on and off since 2008, this is the first year we are releasing it to the public. <h3>2017 VINTAGE</h3> In 2017, we picked on the 31st of August and the grapes were then whole cluster pressed by hand on a small vertical press and run into stainless steel, where it was fermented at 22°C. The white juice was then decanted again and run into glass demi-johns, where it stayed on the lees until bottling the following July. It will remain in bottle until next February when it will be released. 2017 was a drought year throughout Italy, and the resulting wines have a great density and concentration. There is a sweet fruit character to the semillon of this vintage, even though it was fermented totally dry. Its deep golden color gives way to a rich, sweet golden apple nose, with floral notes reminiscent of jasmine. On the palate, there is a lovely freshness that comes from its high and bright acidity, which cuts through its fuller body. Overall, it's a very together white: a ripe and round texture, tightly knit, and full of tension. This interplay of textures provides a particularly compelling contrast with its ripe, fruity character. We produced approximately 1,000 bottles this vintage.
